FOREIGN HORSES BETTER?

DEFEATS AT AQUEDUCT REVIVE OLD QUESTION

Shown by Hourless, Omar Khny-yam and Sunbonnet Incline Many to This Bellet.

The fact that imported thorough breds won over their American competitors in a ratio that was unusual. particularly at the recent Aqueduct meeting, has attracted the attention of the racing public to a marked degree and revived the mooted question of superiority as between foreign and native-bred stock. The undisputed superiority of Hourless. Omar Khayyam and Sunbonnet in the three-year-old colt and filly division, respectively, and the prowess of Sunbriar in the ranks of the two-year-olds has caused many to incline to the belief that horses of foreign, lineage excel ours in speed and quality.

and quality.

An authority whose opinion is worth while, but who declined to be quoted, had the following to say on this subhad the following to say on this subject a few days ago:

"I would regard Hourless as a phenomenal horse, perhaps as good as any that has appeared in this country in many years, while for wear-and-tear qualities Omar Khayyam has seldon been equaled. They are a wonderful pair of coits, but becase they are foreign-born is no reason why we should forget the home-breds that have shown class during the past senson, nor those which have achieved distinction for us in the past both at home and abroad.

is largely a matter of accident."

which have achieved distinction for us in the past both at home and abroad.

"It is largely a matter of accident," this expert resumed. "Some years we have several performers which surpass their fellows, while in other seasons no great superiority is evident. The Royal Week of the Ascot meeting represents what is unquestionably the acme of English racing. There isn't a selling race on the program, and not an event is run that closes later than yearlings. Any British turfman that wins a single one of the events at that meeting considers himself recompensed for the expense and worry of a season. Yet what do the records show? During the Whitney-Lorillard-Keene invasion some years ago Americans won at least one race a day at Assot, while on the closing day of the period they captured no fewer than four events. It created a sensation.

"During the Saratoga meeting" continued the authority—"I think it was the day that Sunbriar won the Hopeful—I quite lost patience with a man who was deploring the decadence of the American thoroughbreds and saying what a splendid thing it was that we were able, because of the war, to replenish our supply of blood. Now, while I am willing to admit that we have secured many desirable thoroughbreds of English and French lineage, I am also of the opinion that we have had quite a lot of inferior animals marketed in this country in the past few years. The importation of the Joel and Sledmere yearlings by Messrs. Macomber and Coe, respectively, was a ten-strike, and the benefit to the American thoroughbred of the future cannot be overestimated. Englishmen are still lamenting their departure from their shores, but I have heard no lamentations over the taking of some of the other stock which must uitimately be assimilated in this country. "I am strong for foreign blood of the proper sort, and we must have it if we are to keep up with the other nations in the development of the horse of blood, but I am not saying that it is the only thing in the world that makes for excellence. PROVIDENCE, R. I., November 3.—
Syractse duplicated its feat of two here this afternoon. The visitors at straight football, outplayed the Brunonians both on offense and defense, the Syracuse line opening big holes for their sterling backs, M. Brown and Funsterwald.

The defeat was the first of the season for Brown. Although Syracuse scored but one touchdown, the New York eleven outplayed Brown in every department of the game, except in punting. The Brown defense could do little with Syracuse's line smashing.
Brown was unable to gain a first down
until the third period.

In the second period, Funsterwald went through left guard for a gain of five yards, and soon after placed the bail on Brown's two-yard line, where
